By Bike

A cycle path runs between Brighton and Lewes along the A27 past the entrance to Stanmer Park. Click here for a PDF cycling map of Brighton and Hove (large file: 1.16MB). From Brighton Station, one possible route involves going down Trafalgar Street and then turning left onto Lewes Road and following it all the way to Stanmer Park. This will take approximately 30 minutes from the station.

Cycles can be hired from Brighton Station. For more information, click here. From Falmer, the trip is shorter, only about 10 minutes.

By Train

Falmer Station is the nearest station, and the walk to Stanmer Organics is a pleasant 40 minutes. Trains from Brighton and Lewes run about every half hour, but it is advisable to check that weekend services are not affected by engineering works – on such occasions, replacement bus services can take considerably longer. From the station walk through the underpass under the main road, then turn immediately left and continue alongside the main road for about 400 metres until you reach the park entrance (there are two small lodges either side of the entrance). Directions continue below. Click here for train journey planner.

By Bus

Brighton and Hove bus number 25 runs very regularly from the centre of Brighton (Churchill Square and Old Steine) and the University at Falmer, stopping near the entrance to Stanmer Park . Also bus services 28, 29, 29A and 29B running between Brighton (Old Steine) and destinations east of Falmer also stop at the entrance to Stanmer Park. Throughout the year on Sundays (and Saturdays in summer) bus 78 goes from central Brighton via Brighton Station all the way to Stanmer Village. First one arrives at 10.30 and the last one leaves at 5.30, (or 4.30 from first weekend in October until mid April whilst the winter timetable is in operation). On Monday- Saturday there is also a number 23 bus that provides a direct service to the Park entrance from the Marina and Kemp Town/Hanover/Queen's Park areas. Click here for Brighton and Hove bus details.

The Big Lemon buses 42 and 43 also stop at the park entrance. Click here for details.
